

How political science models compare

Vox's model, developed by Washington University in St. Louis's Jacob Montgomery and Texas A&M's Florian Hollenbech, is a weighted average of six academic forecasting models. Three of those models have Trump ahead, and three have Clinton, but the one with the best past track record, Abramowitz's, predicts a Trump win.

Sources: Abramowitz, Erikson & Wlezien, Lewis-Beck & Tien, Lockerbie, Norpoth & Bednarczuk, Fair